

CENTRAL VALLEY BEEKEEPERS ASSOCIATION BEEKEEPER'S SYMPOSIUM SPONSORSHIP FORM

About the Beekeeper's Symposium February 23, 2019 While the almonds are blooming, beekeepers from all over the nation are in California. Annually the CVBA takes this unique opportunity to host this event filled with guest speakers as a place to learn, share ideas, and give everyone a chance to develop a network of beekeepers from around the nation.

About the Central Valley Beekeepers Association Established in 1960 as an affiliate of California State Beekeepers Association (CSBA), the Central Valley Beekeepers Association (CVBA) is a non-profit organization which has been supporting local beekeepers for over five decades focused on the promotion and education of the benefits of honeybees and the vital role they play in our society. The CVBA provides valuable resources to and helps connect our Valley, State, and National Beekeepers. We provide several educational opportunities for those wishing to learn from Hobbyist, Sideliners, or Commercial Beekeepers. We also offer speakers and presentations for schools, service clubs, classes and community events with a educational booth at the Big Fresno Fair.

How Can You Help? Bringing in speakers cost money to reimburse mileage, speaker fees, air fare, hotel, food, and thank you gifts. Your donations will help make this event a success and make it possible for us to continue to hold such events ultimately benefitting bee keepers and bees which are vital to our world's food sources.
